About The Conference

One eighth of the Worlds Elderly Population lives in India. In today's developing countries, aging population tends to have a higher prevalence of physical disabilities, mental illnesses and co-morbidities. With continuous decline in death rates among the older peoples and the limits of life expectancy and life span are not obvious. Elderly is the critical stage of life and there is a need to negotiate the issues and challenges of the elderly such as dependency, quality of life, care and support, old age homes (OAH),etc. The health needs and related problems of elderly people cannot be viewed in isolation. There is a wide gamut of determinants such as social concerns, ill treatment towards elderly, food and nutritional requirements, economic constraints, health care systems etc. This conference will help to promote positive attitude and approach towards the elderly population with a special focus of involving intergenerational bonding. Prevention and control of health problems of elderly necessitates a multifaceted approach incorporating active collaboration of health, social welfare, rural/urban development and legal sectors. Provision of quality assured health-care services for the elderly population is a challenge that requires joint approach and innovative strategies. Failure to address the needs of elderly today could develop into a costly problem tomorrow.

Objectives of the conference:

- ◆ To understand and create awareness about intergenerational bonding and its importance in well being of elderly.
- ◆ To analyze and share the role of Children, Adolescents and family in promoting Intergenerational bonding.
