The whole three days of the camp was awesome. The kind of bonding which we had with each other was so special. A great change is what everyone would have felt after those three days. The journey started off by boarding the bus from the rotaract centre. Throughout the trip we had a lot of fun. All of us were singing and dancing with beats. Prashant Anna was the star of our bus. About Prashant Anna I would say that he is the most energetic and coolest person who loves a lot of traveling and chilling. And then we reached the Okura resort and we were all welcomed by the theatre artist with thappattam and silambattam (with fire). The resort was beautiful and the ambience was so serene. After that we had to freshen up for the inauguration, followed by ice breaking sessions taken up by the most talented Ansar bro and Britto bro. They split us into groups and a lot of games along with the opportunity to express our talents wherever possible. Later that night we had motta maadi music which was soothing and calm which was heart melting. They made us sing to the music and the beats.

Next day started off freshly with a motivational speaker called Sathya Kumar who talked about what is reality and Swami Vivekananda's visionary ideas which spread across the globe. Sessions like event management and crisis management were also done to two split up batches. The NLP trainer Priyanka gave us a thought provoking experience. After that a perspective taking session was held which was helpful to understand ideas and perspectives from others views. The next session was taken by a retired army general who spoke about how to be organized and to become disciplined and the way to handle tasks from small to big. In the evening, all of us were very much excited for the competitions and the dj night. During the competitions, all of us were pepped up and energetic to express ourselves in the best way possible. That was fun. And toward the end of the day we got ourselves marked on our face with neon paint and the dj night was a blast. I am so lucky to experience those moments.

And then comes the last day which started off with an extremely energetic mentor who gave us some games which included physical activity which gave us an adrenaline rush. After that Solomon brother took over the next session where groups of ten people were formed and made to think on the best ideas and plans to work on in the future. He gave us 10 minutes to discuss among ourselves and pen down the ideas and we're asked to explain to the gathering to make it a successful and acceptable idea. The last and final session was taken up by Britto brother to speak about friendship and how valuable it is to our life for our growth, support and happiness. And then the closing ceremony was done and awards were given. It was a proud moment for MSSW as Rtr. Vijaya Gowri Mohan to get the best Female Rylarian Award. It was fun and felt the brotherhood with Prashant anna, senthil bro and Vijaya raghavan bro which cannot be expressed through words.
